

How social care providers can access the Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training elearning

January 2023

Training available

A host of training packages, many designed to be used by social care workers as well as health workers and some of which are also publicly available for individuals, carers and volunteers. All of the material is free to use.

Learning disability and autism training is now mandatory.

The Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training on Learning

do this training.

Ways to register

There are several ways that social care workers can get an account:

The employer can use the bulk upload service to arrange accounts for each of their staff.

Each member of staff can register individually using their individual (named) work or personal email address.

Organisations can use their own existing Learning Management System access to the content is provided via AICC links. SCORM files are not available.

Using an existing OpenAthens account if the person already has one.

Ways to register

It can seem tricky to know the best way to register at first, but we are here to help.
